FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK:

25 years in Sandpoint, Idaho!

March 1, 2016 was our 25th anniversary of moving from Phoenix to Sandpoint. We praise the Lord for His Grace and Protection and for the sheer joy of living in this beautiful place.

IN THE HOSPITAL AGAIN

This time friends, it nearly cost me my life. It started last Monday, 29 February 2016. I was feeling ok. I did not have a fever, chills, or any discomfort. My wife asked if I would like to go eat at the local health food store, and I said sure. I even drove and on the way over, we had a great conversation. We arrived, went inside and I did my usual, place some food items in a food container, gave it to my wife to go pay for it, and I headed back to the refrigerator section. On the way over I coughed up something, and looking down on my hand, I noticed a large volume of bright red-blood. I immediately headed as fast as I could to the restroom. There I threw up a large amount of blood. I would estimate close to a liter, or just short of $\frac{3}{4}$ of a quart of blood. I threw up in the toilet, flushed it, went over to the sink, then back to the toilet, and it just kept coming up. I thought for sure it was the end of the line for Pastor Barley.

I somehow made it out of the restroom and got my wife's attention. All I could say was "hospital" to which my very attentive wife did not hesitate one second. Martha rushed to the car and speedily got me to the local hospital, about 2 miles away. She told me, my eyes rolled to the back of my head and I choked on my blood and passed out. Fortunately, the doctors at the ER got to me quickly. They cut off my clothes, put a tube in my throat, plus assorted other emergency measures. Then they had me flown by helicopter to a bigger hospital, about 40 miles away. I, of course, do not remember any of this (they had me heavily sedated), though I have always wanted to go on a helicopter ride, I thankfully do not remember any of it (boo-hoo).

There were short periods of time I did wake up and respond to certain voices, but for the most part, I was kept, as I said, heavily sedated. When I really came awake, it was Wednesday, the 2nd of March 2016, at 11:00 A.M. When I came to, I found that my hands were tightly held to my bed by strong wrist restraints. I was still intubated with a tube in my mouth that went deep into my throat. Let me tell you friends, it was not pleasant to go through, but I fully know that my blessed Savior Jesus Christ was there with me and Sovereignly overseeing everything.

To make a long story short, I got better as the doctors, after several days, were able to identify what the problem was. My labs showed greater than 100,000 colonies/ml of microaerophilic streptococcus. Plus, some less threatening, but still dangerous bacterial infections.

Not sure how my lung was infected with this vicious form of bacteria, but it happened and it was a life threatening form. While I was out (actually shortly after I arrived by helicopter) a specialist went into my lungs with tubes and video instruments. He also obtained lung tissue sample by which they were eventually able to determine what was causing the problem. The main medicine they used to treat this vicious infection with is called, among other names, Novapilus.

To say the least, many prayers have been lifted up for me and family in all this. Again, I am very fortunate to be alive. My wife was told at the emergency room, that had I been home, which is about 15 miles away, I probably would not have survived. Folks, there is no doubt in my mind that Jesus was in complete control over this whole ordeal.

I am still weak, but getting stronger. I am at the office plugging along with the good work of the Kingdom, but being very cautious not to overdo it. My wife and family are doing their due diligence in being excellent over seers (angels). God's not through with me yet, but this was a close one. Also, thank God for my friend Doug Evers vitamins, the doctors said in spite of all this, my heart was surprisingly strong. Yes, everything in moderation, but I fully believe certain supplements can and do help, AND I NEVER FORGET THAT JESUS CHRIST IS OUR HEALER.

"One of the ancients used to say, If I see a man not delighting in prayer, I conclude he is one of no inward excellence; nay, is it any wonder to see many congregations rather hospitals of poor, decrepit, decayed, diseased Christians, than gardens where are godly, fragrant, thriving plants? As the body without the soul is dead, unserviceable, yea, in an offense in others' nostrils, so are we as loathsome in God's sight, without the true exercise of prayer, which, (as some have called it,) is, as it were, the soul of our souls. Some of the ancients have called prayer the physic [exercise] of the soul; and truly such it is; it will, by the blessing of God, purge, heal, recover, quicken, and strengthen a very weakly Christian, as experience witnesseth." (p.20) taken from Gospel Incense: or a practical Treatise on Prayer (1657) by Thomas Cobbet, 414pp., pb., one of the most profound Puritan works on this topic.

STANDING UP AGAINST THE CORRUPT POPE:

The stupidity and hypocrisy of the Pope is astounding. The fact that the Vatican has a wall around its fortress, didn't seem to alter the Pope to his own hypocritical position. The fact that Nehemiah and his fellow Israelites dedicatedly build a wall, didn't seem to catch the "unholiness" religious Pontiff's attention before he called Donald Trump a non-Christian. His reasoning is not only laughable, but outrageous. Yep, the Pope is religious man alright, a religious pursuer of globalism, draped, and dripping in paganism.

WHAT'S MINE IS MINE? — OH REALLY?

Not according to the government, progressives, liberals, socialists, communists, and assorted knot-heads. To them, what you worked for (productivity), put sweat, effort, thought, time, great risk into, belongs to whomever the government deems "deserving" of your wealth. It does not matter if you are "middle class" or "wealthy," the end justifies the means, whether that means is force, coercion, or politics. The government has no business knowing how much money you make, how much money you have in some bank account, how much money you wish to put into that account or draw out. My pockets nor your pockets should be open to the government. Where do they or other corrupt minded people get the idea that they can force us to turn over what belongs to us? I'll tell you, IDOLATRY (the love, worship of money and control).

That's right, IDOLATRY. When we (the people) leave the true worship of Yahweh, the Lord Jesus Christ, and allow foreign anti-Bible religions, philosophies, or ideologies to influence our political process, meaning the government, that government will become antichrist in purpose and nature. People talk about a "national conscience," well, in a very real way, the government can be converted or manipulated into becoming the heart of dragonism. That dragonism, of course, being representative of beast systems, all of which are 100 percent opposed to the Word of God, and the worship of King Jesus. The Word of God makes it very clear.

Exodus 20:3-7

³ Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

⁴ Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

⁵ Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD THY God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

⁶ And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

⁷ Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD WILL not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

There is definitely a Biblical tithe, and the principle of tithing is stated in the Scriptures, but the tithe was not appropriated through force or by armed priests knocking upon your door or sending you a threatening letter like the IRS. The tithe has always been a free-will offering, and giving should be of, by, and for a Christian people and thus the nation of Christendom. The more idolatrous the nation becomes, the more multicultural it will become and the more thieves, liars, and crooks become representatives of that nation.

“Thou shalt have no other gods before me” Is this just a mere suggestion, or is it a Biblical absolute with far reaching national implications? When Yahweh says “NO OTHER GODS BEFORE ME,” do you not also understand that He is warning the nation that if they violate this Biblical Law, the nation will become multicultural in its government, which includes its laws, economy, religion, bureaucracy, culture, and population. This is NOT as a blessing, but a CURSE.

*As the bird by wandering, as the swallow by flying, so the curse causeless shall not come.

No, we do not want the government to be so high-minded and dictatorial that it feels justified to steal from the people anytime it so chooses, therefore, we need to fight back. Yes, fight back. What do you mean preacher, do you want us to grab our guns and go to war? Well, if I thought that would solve anything I would say yes, but that would do nothing but give the enemy more opportunity to kill more of us, and feel smug and sanctimonious about it. Here are a few thoughts about how we are to fight back and I'm open to other suggestion on this, but here are a few ideas:

1) Certainly pray, and pray all the more in these end-times.

Here are some vital verses on the need and power of prayer:

Luke 18:6-8

⁶ And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith.

⁷ And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?

⁸ I tell you that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

Ephesians 6:18

Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints;

Exodus 33:13

Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy sight, shew me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy sight: and consider that this nation is thy people.

2 Sam 7:25-29

²⁵ And now, O LORD GOD, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

²⁶ And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD OF hosts is the God over Israel: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

²⁷ For thou, O LORD OF hosts, God of Israel, hast revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee a house: therefore, hath thy servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

²⁸ And now, O Lord GOD, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant:

²⁹ Therefore now let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O Lord GOD, hast spoken it: and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

Psalm 5:1-3

¹ Give ear to my words, O LORD, consider my meditation.

² Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray.

³ My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O LORD; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

Psalm 9:19-20

¹⁹ Arise, O LORD; let not man prevail: let the heathen be judged in thy sight.

²⁰ Put them in fear, O LORD: that the nations may know themselves to be but men. Selah.

2) Refuse to support any form or process of alien immigration into this nation. Do what we can to plug all avenues of alien induction. Do not hire them. Do not vote for them. Do not support them or their causes (short of immediate needed welfare or assistance). Dare to be brave in this endeavor and start standing up for yourself White man, not out of “worldly hate” but out of love for God Almighty and His Word and what He has declared unto His Adamic-Covenant-Israel people. Did Yahweh set up a welfare state as our misguided nation is presently doing? Of course not.

- 3) Come together more White man. The more we are divided and alienated, the more we become disjointed and disoriented toward any possible ability to work together or have reasoned redress of grievances. But let me warn the body, that if this is just a flesh edifying movement, and not a Kingdom Israelite Covenant society that has as its goal to move in a Christ oriented direction, and with a Biblical purpose that is in keeping with what God has called His Israel people unto, we will be wasting our time and efforts.
- 4) Yes, united we stand, divided we fall. This is a truism that certainly has been ignored in our ancestry's ignorance and misapplication of the alien problem that we are nationally besieged with today. But let us remember that this all stems from Israel having an "idolatry" problem. If we did not have such a problem, we would not be so corrupted or manipulated by so many foreign conditions and traditions. Therefore, we need to be more fully aware of the dangers and implications of idolatry. This means we need to first and foremost become more united with King Jesus and His Word before we physically unite in pockets of Covenant communities. Our honored Puritan, Pilgrim Christian forefathers believed in Biblical separatism, though they made a few mistakes, they were on the road of Biblical Light. That Light is missing in our nation, but that Light is still with you and I brethren, and we have the Holy Spirit Light to again let that blessed Light shine. We need to get our mind off the masses. The majority (mob-rule) is in no way shape or form the door in which we will find the solution. The solution is in not listening to the so called "majority rule," but in listening to whole Bible, whole Word of God Truth. This means the understanding and application of the Covenants and Promises to the Adamic-Israel people of the Scriptures. Not in playing the mixed multitude game of multiculturalism. This has been a major part of our undoing and the reason we have nationally become a grievous idolatrous nation. Other gods will most assuredly produce national destruction. And joining together with everybody out of some message of love, even in the name of Christ is only a love way short of the Gospel. An all-inclusive Gospel (the whole Bible message) may sound highly pleasing, but in searching the Scriptures, that type of Gospel is simply missing. Trying to make it an all-inclusive Gospel will not produce an all-inclusive spiritual transformation either. You can go over to India, Africa, China, Taiwan, and desperately pour the Gospel into them, but you will soon find that you will have to come back to the Adamic-Israel people because they are the Bible people and they clearly have the Kingdom calling upon them. If you want everybody poured into the same spiritual pot, you'll be cooking something all right, but it won't be Biblical.

- 5) So be more of a Bible oriented society and people. Be more Christian. Be more involved in loving the brethren. But above all be highly dedicated to Christ and His Kingdom purposes. All these changes will aid the nation, and it will not take a "majority," it will take the sons of God coming into their proper Biblical place. (More thought later. Love you all. Please stay in the Word and be Christ oriented).

GOOD FOR APPLE SAYING NO TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The government wants more and more of our rights, freedoms, and liberties. They are doing so in the name of "fighting terrorism, national security, and whatever else cause they want to alarm the public with." We are asked, actually told, that we must surrender our "rights" of whatever sort, for the good of the nation in their fight against whatever villain they create. As I have told you before, follow the money trail and axis of power. Do you really think for one minute that all this erosion of our freedoms and liberties are happening by sheer accident? The government wants access to your phone calls, email, Facebook memos, driving records, banking transactions, credit card dealings, hotel visits, flying record, political associations, religious connections, and so forth.

Apple, whether we like them or not, agree with them or not, is from all appearances taking a stand against out of control government high-handed dictatorial policies. The intrusive moves by government don't diminish, they grow ever so abusive and threatening. They believe that they have the right to stick their mile-long noses into our business and personal affairs any time they care to, and for whatever reason they can conjure up. The law is supposed to be above the government, not the government above the law. The government cannot be trusted folks; this is a fact. Do not dare think for one minute that because your favorite political party is in power, that all is well (I do not think any of you are that gullible). First of all, all "political parties" are corrupt, I don't care how much the people may trust their political party. Even if your political party is in power, the next political party will most likely upset your "apple cart." Believe me the FBI or any other government agency is corrupt, highly politicized, extremely dangerous. Good for Apple fighting them over this issue to control all aspects of technology so that they can oversee whatever we are doing. Believe me folks, the USA government is an ungodly beast system. They want to control you, not because they love you and want the best for you. They want to control the people to tear down the principles that made America (at one time) a great nation.

All this government talk about needing more, and more, and more, and more, and more spy capabilities, which they are going to use against the American public is all about the "globalists" plan to control, diminish, further de-Christianize, and conquer any semblance of Christendom. It is a spirit of Red Esau Edom against the Jacob Israel Covenant people. Like it or not, this means they desperately want to be able to control, devalue, and greatly weaken the White Israel ancestry.

The Destructive Influence of Pietism in American Society

By Pastor Matt Trehwella

<http://www.mercyseat.net/pdfs/destructivepietism.pdf>

Many in American Christianity like to use great swelling words about revival - "a national revival" - as being the only means whereby the ills of our nation will be reversed or cured. But I submit to you, that even if there were a great revival in this nation, we would not see any of the change in the hearts of men translated into a change in America's laws.

The reason there would be no change is because American Christianity is rooted in and wed to Pietism. Pietism, as a movement, originated in the late 17th century, and was what some saw as a reaction to the cold orthodoxy that had settled in 150 years after the Reformation started. Pietists viewed Christianity as being prevalent within Western culture, but believed they saw little of it evident in people's personal lives.

Pietism therefore went to the other extreme and taught that Christianity should only affect the personal. Pietists believe Christianity or God's Law has no place for the governance of society. They view involvement in public policy matters to be "unspiritual." Hence, the Pietist is constantly preoccupied with checking their motives, and listening to countless sermons on inter-personal relationships and self-improvement techniques.

Pietism was developed amongst the Lutherans, impacted the Calvinists, and became prevalent amongst the Baptists. Pietism went on to infect every area of Christianity. Present day American Christianity is Pietism.

We are now seeing, in our day, the results of a Pietistic Christianity. Because the Pietists retreated from the culture, the institutions of the culture have been annexed and overtaken by pagan men.

And this is my point - even if there was a great revival - there is no theological means within present day American Christianity whereby biblical morality could become public policy. There has to be a fundamental change in the form of Christianity in America in order to see it happen. American Christianity not only has no desire to see the law of God fleshed out in American jurisprudence - it is literally incapable of doing so.

We have been skating on the coattails of Christian men who established what is known as Western Civilization for over 200 years now. The 'rule of law' for nearly 1500 years has been God's Law in Western Civilization, not by chance, but because Christian men made it so. We are now witnessing the collapse of the 'rule of law' in our day. We can thank the Pietists, in all their spiritual pride and Gnosticism, for it.

The Pietist hates God's Law as much as the pagan. The Pietist and the pagan have something they agree upon - their mutual hatred of God's Law in society. The pagan hates it because of his rebellion. The Pietist hates it because of his religion. The result is a mutually assured destruction of the culture.

Scholar and historian, Steven Ozment, in his book Protestants: Birth of a Revolution, said that the Protestant Reformers understood that "Reform that existed only in pamphlets and sermons, and not also in law and institutions, would remain a private affair, confined to all intents and purposes within the minds of preachers and pamphleteers."

But present day American Christianity is perfectly content for it to "remain a private affair," hence the malaise in our culture.

True Christianity understands that it's not an either/or - rather - it understands true Christianity benefits individual men and is a benefit to nations.

Pietism is why The Barna Group recently found that 80% of Christians do not know how to apply their Christianity to their everyday life. This is because Pietism fragments everything between the so-called "spiritual" and the "unspiritual," and thinks God's Word doesn't have anything to say about law, government, economics or education, which results in the individual Pietist conforming to every area of American life because he views Christianity as not being applicable to his everyday life and every area of life.

I recently received a flyer in my mailbox from a "bible-believing" church which invited me to hear a "sermon series" about "tension." This is all Pietistic Christianity has to offer the nation - and this is what one's Christianity is reduced to by Pietism - a therapy for tension.

Christian men of old saw things far differently. They believed the civil authorities should "kiss the Son, lest He be angry" (Psalm 2:10-12). They sought to win the magistrates of their day to Christ or to at least respect His rule. They understood that the law of God in society was needed, and that civil government was supposed to be a picture of God's justice and glory in the earth, causing men to consider matters of eternal salvation.

We are not talking about a socio-political utopia here, as the nature of man forbids it. I can assure you however that when Christian men of old found themselves in a dire situation, they didn't open up their prophesy charts and begin to examine them. Rather, they picked up their Bibles and looked to construct a Christian society. May the Lord grant us the grace to do likewise.

HOW A GENERATION LOST ITS COMMON CULTURE!

By Patrick Deneen

My students are know-nothings. They are exceedingly nice, pleasant, trustworthy, mostly honest, well-intentioned, and utterly decent. But their brains are largely empty, devoid of any substantial knowledge that might be the fruits of an education in an inheritance and a gift of a previous generation. They are the culmination of western civilization, a civilization that has forgotten nearly everything about itself, and as a result, has achieved near-perfect indifference to its own culture.

It's difficult to gain admissions to the schools where I've taught – Princeton, Georgetown, and now Notre Dame. Students at these institutions have done what has been demanded of them: they are superb test-takers, they know exactly what is needed to get an A in every class (meaning that they rarely allow themselves to become passionate and invested in any one subject); they build superb resumes. They are respectful and cordial to their elders, though easy-going if crude with their peers. They respect diversity (without having the slightest clue what diversity is) and they are experts in the arts of non-judgmentalism (at least publically). They are the cream of their generation, the masters of the universe, a generation-in-waiting to run America and the world.

But ask them some basic questions about the civilization they will be inheriting, and be prepared for averted eyes and somewhat panicked looks. Who fought in the Peloponnesian War? Who taught Plato, and whom did Plato teach? How did Socrates die? Raise your hand if you have read both the Iliad and the Odyssey. The Canterbury Tales? Paradise Lost?

The Inferno?

Who was Saul of Tarsus? What were the 95 theses, who wrote them, and what was their effect? Why does the Magna Carta matter? How and where did Thomas Becket die? Who was Guy Fawkes, and why is there a day named after him? What did Lincoln say in his Second Inaugural? His first Inaugural? How about his third Inaugural? What are the Federalist Papers?

Some students, due most often to serendipitous class choices or a quirky old-fashioned teacher, might know a few of these answers. But most students have not been educated to know them. At best, they possess accidental knowledge, but otherwise are masters of systematic ignorance. It is not their “fault” for pervasive ignorance of western and American history, civilization, politics, art and literature. They have learned exactly what we have asked of them – to be like mayflies, alive by happenstance in a fleeting present.

Our students’ ignorance is not a failing of the educational system – it is its crowning achievement.

Efforts by several generations of philosophers and reformers and public policy experts — whom our students (and most of us) know nothing about — have combined to produce a generation of know-nothings. The pervasive ignorance of our students is not a mere accident or unfortunate but correctible outcome, if only we hire better teachers or tweak the reading lists in high school. It is the consequence of a civilizational commitment to civilizational suicide. The end of history for our students signals the End of History for the West.

During my lifetime, lamentation over student ignorance has been sounded by the likes of E.D. Hirsch, Allan Bloom, Mark Bauerlein and Jay Leno, among many others. But these lamentations have been leavened with the hope that appeal to our and their better angels might reverse the trend (that's an allusion to Lincoln's first inaugural address, by the way). E.D. Hirsch even worked up a self-help curriculum, a do-it yourself guide on how to become culturally literate, imbued with the can-do American spirit that cultural defenestration could be reversed by a good reading list in the appendix. Broadly missing is sufficient appreciation that this ignorance is the intended consequence of our educational system, a sign of its robust health and success.

We have fallen into the bad and unquestioned habit of thinking that our educational system is broken, but it is working on all cylinders. What our educational system aims to produce is cultural amnesia, a wholesale lack of curiosity, history-less free agents, and educational goals composed of content-free processes and unexamined buzz-words like "critical thinking," "diversity," "ways of knowing," "social justice," and "cultural competence."

Our students are the achievement of a systemic commitment to producing individuals without a past for whom the future is a foreign country, cultureless ciphers who can live anywhere and perform any kind of work without inquiring about its purposes or ends, perfected tools for an economic system that prizes "flexibility" (geographic, interpersonal, ethical).

In such a world, possessing a culture, a history, an inheritance, a commitment to a place and particular people, specific forms of gratitude and indebtedness (rather than a generalized and deracinated commitment to "social justice"), a strong set of ethical and moral norms that assert definite limits to what one ought and ought not to do (aside from being "judgmental") are hindrances and handicaps.

Regardless of major or course of study, the main object of modern education is to sand off remnants of any cultural or historical specificity and identity that might still stick to our students, to make them perfect company men and women for a modern polity and economy that penalizes deep commitments. Efforts first to foster appreciation for “multi-culturalism” signaled a dedication to eviscerate any particular cultural inheritance, while the current fad of “diversity” signals thoroughgoing commitment to de-cultured and relentless homogenization.

We Must Know...What?

Above all, the one overarching lesson that students receive is the true end of education: the only essential knowledge is that know ourselves to be radically autonomous selves within a comprehensive global system with a common commitment to mutual indifference. Our commitment to mutual indifference is what binds us together as a global people. Any remnant of a common culture would interfere with this prime directive: a common culture would imply that we share something thicker, an inheritance that we did not create, and a set of commitments that imply limits and particular devotions.

Ancient philosophy and practice praised as an excellent form of government a res publica – a devotion to public things, things we share together. We have instead created the world’s first Res Idiotica – from the Greek word idiotes, meaning “private individual.” Our education system produces solipsistic, self-contained selves whose only public commitment is an absence of commitment to a public, a common culture, a shared history. They are perfectly hollowed vessels, receptive and obedient, without any real obligations or devotions.

They won’t fight against anyone, because that’s not seemly, but they won’t fight for anyone or anything either. They are living in a perpetual Truman Show, a world constructed yesterday that is nothing more than a set for their solipsism, without any history or trajectory.

I love my students – like any human being, each has enormous potential and great gifts to bestow upon the world. But I weep for them, for what is rightfully theirs but hasn't been given. On our best days, I discern their longing and anguish and I know that their innate human desire to know who they are, where they have come from, where they ought to go, and how they ought to live will always reassert itself. But even on those better days, I can't help but hold the hopeful thought that the world they have inherited – a world without inheritance, without past, future, or deepest cares – is about to come tumbling down, and that this collapse would be the true beginning of a real education.

Letters from Readers

I gave my book [on who Israel and Christ are] to a man darker than midnight. I told him the title was boring as were the first 11 pages. He finished it within 24 hours. He said, "Right on!" He also believes the Adamic race is strictly the white race. He even called me at work to tell me the first 11 pages were exciting.. . . He also thinks you have a cool ministry and does not think you or I are racist at all. Ray served in the military and perfectly understands the concept "Get rid of America Great Britain, and most of continental Europe and you have nothing but Hell on earth." DJ, CA

Letter to Dr. David Jeremiah from an ethnic Jew

I was born to non-practicing Jewish parents. I probably have some "Gentile" ancestry, but this is only a guess. I can only say that I never "fit in" with Jews. I am now nearly 70 years old, and have not had a face-to-face conversation with a Jewish person in over 18 years. My parents never practiced Judaism, for which I am thankful. I do not identify as "Jewish," and have not had Jewish friends for many decades. I am most uncomfortable among Jews, and VERY much at home in my small rural church, in which almost everyone is a "WASP."

There are a great many things I would like to say to you concerning your support for the state of Israel, but both your time and mine are limited, so I will just stress one point. This has to do with your statement that all those countries which have mistreated the Jews have been punished by God for having done so.

May I suggest another possible explanation?

Jews have been exiled from just about every country in Europe at one time or another. Do you really believe that this is due exclusively to the work of Satan in the hearts of the peoples of Europe? If you heard about a person who had been evicted from 20 apartments in six or seven years, and he told you that it was because he had always had bad landlords, I think you would suggest that he take a look at himself, and see what he was doing to bring about the landlords' reactions.

1 Thessalonians 2:14-16 give us a very clear picture of what the Jews have done, even back in the first century. Since that time, their ungodly behavior has only increased, and they are even MORE displeasing to God than they were some 1,950 years ago! More than any other

"people group", they have tried to undermine the preaching of the gospel and have unremittingly tried to subvert and even destroy Christian civilization--in Europe, in the New World, and in just about every other place where Christianity has taken root.

In addition, the Jews have corrupted the morals and ethical standards in every country. If, over the centuries, host populations have been angered by this, and have at times struck back at Jews in general, is this really "divine vengeance" for their supposed Satanic hatred for those who are purported to be "the chosen people?" Not every individual Jew is to blame, and, yes, many people have suffered who should not have, but, then, the same has been true among the "host nations" who have been the target of the Jews' seeking revenge. The destabilizing of a nation's economy, and (more recently) the introduction of unwanted "asylum seekers" into foreign nations, has been the Jewish leadership's means of causing the desired chaos in the western Christian nations--and many "average people" have suffered without just cause.

Dr. Jeremiah, I think you know better. You could accomplish so much more if you stopped pandering to the enemies of Christ.

Let me say clearly: the real Israelites are not the people called "Jews." Rather, they are the Anglo-Saxon, Germanic, Scandinavian, and Celtic peoples. The Jews are impostors, as I think you know only too well.

If you doubt this, you can order a 100-page booklet called, The Covenant People, by William J. Cameron. Your staff can order this for you from Destiny Publishers, Merrimack, Massachusetts. Or from us #311. Suggested gift \$8

Please move in the right direction. Millions of people might be moved to genuine repentance!

Sincerely, RP

Author's background: My father's father had no use for Judaism. He was born in either 1879 or 1880, and, by the turn of the century was living in or near what was then the Russian/Polish border.

Amazingly, my grandfather gave the name "Israel" to the baby who was later to become my father! He certainly had no idea who the Israelites really are! This was in March of 1909, when my father was born in that village near the Russian/Polish border. Almost 38 years later, at the very end of 1946, my father gave me the middle name of "Paul".

But my father said that he chose that name, because that name gave me a chance not to identify as a Jew. This was NOT for purposes of infiltration, but, rather, so I could avoid the handicap of being saddled with traditions which my father detested!

My father was grateful that America gave Jews a chance. His view was that America was "their country"--that is, the country of the Protestant majority--and that Jews ought to allow those who originally founded it be in charge. Yes, he was a total materialist, but he never opposed the WASP majority, and thought it was ridiculous for Jews to be offended by Christmas displays, prayers in schools, and many other things which have led to such ugly confrontations. Basically, he did not like most Jews, and felt estranged from them.

Anyway...you can see how God paved the way for me to be so very, very different from any of my cousins. I've believed the Israel truth for many, many years and taught many that they are true Israelites and not the Jews. As an ethnic Jew, I have been given many opportunities to witness to Israelites that they are in fact, Israel, and I am not!

THE MISSION OF ISRAEL

by Thomas C. Rolland

The Lord gave the world His Word, in the form of our modern Bible, so that we can learn and understand who our Creator is, and how we are to worship Him.

One of the main themes in in Scripture is the great plan of salvation. The foundation of that plan is laid down in the story of the Patriarchs. The Patriarchs were established in the first man, Adam. After the fall, even though sin had entered into the plan, Adam was still chosen by the Lord to be placed in charge of the earth.

This authority was given in Genesis 1:26-28, “And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.”

As many students of Scripture know, the Bible then clearly lays out a legitimate royal line of kings of the world. This line establishes Jesus’ legal claim to be the King and High Priest of the world, and it also establishes his right to be the Kinsman Redeemer.

An important part of this was the establishment of God’s covenant people, Israel. A kingdom includes certain aspects, like a King, a Throne, a Land and most importantly a People. In Genesis chapter 29, we notice the very large family that the Lord was giving Jacob-Israel with the help of his four wives. It is easy to understand and imagine that these eleven sons and one daughter were born within eight years of his marriage to Leah and Rachel, with the help of their prospective handmaidens. Certainly, more than one was often pregnant at a time. The scriptures clearly explain the thoughts of the two 'official' wives in the naming of all of the children.

They engaged in a reproductive competition that not only insured God's promise of fruitfulness to Jacob, but also played a role in the actual naming process. All of this was certainly planned by our sovereign Lord and God, YHWH. Jacob, the supplanter, had been tricked by his uncle, and now father-in-law, Laban. The daughter he had worked seven long years for had been supplanted on his wedding night celebration for her older sister. I'm sure that Jacob harbored hard feelings toward Leah for being 'in' on the joke. Even though this may have been the case, he did not withhold himself from his wife, and the Lord opened Leah's womb.

According to verse 32 she conceives and names her firstborn Reuben, which means 'Behold a Son.' The next year she bears another son, and because God heard her request, she names him in a similar manner, so Simeon means 'hearing God,' or 'God hears.' Because Hebrew is written and read from right to left and not left to right like English, the meanings can also be understood better looking at them both forwards and backwards. A third son is born and named Levi, or, ‘joined together’ because now Leah believes that her husband will draw closer to her, the mother of his three sons. Finally, Leah has a fourth son in as many years, which she praises YHWH for, and thus Judah means ‘praise YHWH.’

By this point Rachel, in distress, decides to enter her handmaid into the reproduction competition on her behalf. By precedent, this is the same thing Abram’s wife Sarai did with her bondservant, Hagar, to ‘help’ God give Abram a son. Bilhah conceives and bears a son Rachel names Dan, or “judge,” because God had judged her and given a son. Bilhah conceives again and bares another son Rachel names Naphtali, because she had wrestled with her sister and prevailed. By this point, Leah decided she should also put her handmaid into the race on her behalf, and in doing so Zilpah is given to Jacob as a wife and produces a son Leah names Gad. A ‘troop cometh’ is indicative of the old western movie “victory,” which results when the beleaguered wagon train or fort is saved by the cavalry, coming to the rescue. Next, Zilpah, bears her second son to Jacob, which Leah names Asher, because she is ‘happy and blessed.’

After several years without conceiving, Leah once again becomes pregnant when she barter her son Reuben’s mandrakes for a night with Jacob. Rachel desired the mandrakes, which were viewed in those days as a fertility aid. Leah names her fifth son Issachar on this account, which means ‘hire or reward,’ since she had to “pay” to have a night with her husband. Shortly afterward she bears her sixth and last son Zebulon, which means both ‘dwelling or safe haven.’ I think this is indicative of the fact that each of Jacob's wives was given their own large tent within the household compound, as a dwelling place for themselves and their respective children. In her eyes, she must have felt that having given birth to six sons for Jacob, finally her husband would dwell with her in her tent, on a full time basis.

Finally, after he has already fathered ten sons, Jacob's beloved wife Rachel conceives and bears a son she names Joseph, which means 'he will add.' Incredibly, Rachel has been the last of the four wives to bare a son of her own body, and in naming him, looks forward to the time when she will bear another for Jacob.

Ten years will pass before Rachel again conceives at the age of 45 years old. It is during the family's journey from Laban's home in Syria to Bethel in Canaan. She endures hard labor delivering her second and last son. It is during this fatal delivery that Rachel names the boy, Benomi, or 'son of my sorrow,' as she is dying.

Apparently after her death, Jacob for the first and only time names one of his own sons when he renames their son Benjamin, I believe he did this out of love and respect for her, which means "son of my right hand." I imagine that Rachel was not only beautiful, but also helpful and organized, and that Jacob relied upon her immensely.

The 'right' hand is also synonymous with 'mercy,' this is why Jesus sits at the right hand of the Father in heaven – He dispenses mercy. Benjamin is also the only son born after Jacob's name has been changed to Israel.

Because the Lord is Sovereign in all things, we can look to the meanings of numbers and names to help us see his perfect plan. The Bible gives us a short story to what was going on in each of the competing sister's minds as the sons are born.

Interestingly, just as the name meanings of the patriarchs from Adam through Noah point to the work of the coming messiah. Likewise, the names and meanings of the sons of Jacob-Israel point to the wonderful culmination of the work of the children of Israel – the Messiah. If we follow the birth order as given in Genesis chapters 29 and 30, we can begin to see a message from the Lord hidden within the name meanings.

“Behold a Son, hearing God, joined together with YHWH in His praise. The Lord hath judged His struggle and rewarded Him with Victory. He will be called Blessed and His reward is to dwell with the LORD in a safe haven. To which God will add His position as the Son of the right hand granting mercy.”

I think if you pluralize it due to the many sons of Jacob-Israel themselves, it makes even more sense. “Behold Sons, hearing God, united together in the praise of YHWH. God hath judged their struggle and granted them victory, and has blessed them with their reward. An indwelling of the Lord, to which will be added Sonship and Mercy.”

This is clearly the mission of Israel, both physically and spiritually. Hallelujah!

CONCERNING THE ELECTION

by Thomas C. Rolland

As you receive this edition of the Newsletter, we here in the middle of the long process of picking a new President. After the War of Independence ended to the benefit of the Thirteen Colonies, our founding fathers looked for a corporate leader. As many of you know, one of the themes of the Colonial forces throughout the war was, "No King but King Jesus." Congress approached the victorious General George Washington to be that leader. Because of his belief in the Colonial motto, he would not accept the position of King; instead, he said he would consent to "preside" until Christ's return. From then until now we have had "presidents" in the "United States of America."

Here at America's Promise, we believe in the Saxon-Israel message, that the European peoples are the literal descendants of the lost sheep of the House of Israel. Those Israel people are led by the House of Joseph, which is found in the British and American nations of Ephraim and Manasseh. Although Ephraim maintains the throne of David, we here living in Manasseh elect a "king" every four years. Regardless of the title, the position is still the same. The election "season" is upon us again until November of 2016. In Daniel 4:17, we are told the truth of the matter,

"This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent that the living may know that the most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and setteth up over it the basest of men."

This portion of God's Word gave me a lot of peace as a young altruistic twelve-year-old in 1976 when Jimmy Carter was elected as President. It also gave me comfort again when both Bill Clinton and Barak Hussein Obama were elected when I was a grown man. Truly, the basest of men!

I think it would be wise, going forward from here, for the rest of this election cycle, to focus in on the presidential and political races at large. Certainly, the Democrats will stick with Mrs. Rodham-Clinton, rather than the old Socialist Bernie Sanders. Unfortunately, Americans love the idea of "royalty" without ever desiring a King or Queen. Average Republicans just seem to love the Bush clan, and the Democrats, with the Kennedys mostly dead and gone, hearken back to the heydays of Bill Clinton's success filled eight years.

So Hillary has assumed, and most likely been previously promised by the Globalists, this would be her year, after the mess Obama has made of things. So the Left is ready for another adventure with the Clintons. The idea being, like the country song by Shania Twain, "dance with the one who brought you to the dance. You gotta dance with the one that brought you, Stay with the one that wants you, the one that's gonna love you when all of the others go home, don't let the green grass fool ya, don't let the moon get to ya, dance with the one that brought you and you can't go wrong." Currently, Obama enjoys the lowest recorded approval rating of all time, so for the Democrats, anything would be better.

Martin Luther once wrote, "it is better to be ruled by a competent Turk (i.e.- Muslim) than an incompetent Christian." Having had almost the better part of seven years under an incompetent Muslims' liberal regime, I look forward to the presidency of a committed Christian. Unfortunately, I don't really expect it. In the Scripture, election is mentioned seven times, defined by the Strong's Concordance number 1589. Its definition is, "the act of picking out, choosing, the decree made from choice by which he determined to bless certain persons through Christ by grace alone, a thing or person chosen."

Historically, whenever greater Israel took a vote, it was almost always the wrong vote.

Currently, the Republican Party hopes to field a strong enough candidate to defeat Hillary, but only time will tell. Our electronic voting machines have been poorly designed to allow manipulation and chicanery of every kind. So, no matter what, I know that Almighty God is in control.

Our great nation is currently being judged in accordance with Deuteronomy 28, so until we cry out in Repentance, be prepared for anything unexpected. The Republican Party is currently manipulated by two groups, the Neo-Cons and Theo-Cons. The Neo-Cons are by definition, the "new comen." They are almost exclusively formerly liberal Democrat Jews who abandoned the Democrats for the Republican Christian Right. Their only goal is the defense and salvation of the Jewish Palestinian state claiming to be Israel. The Theo-Cons, on the other hand, are mainly Christians who blindly follow the Neo-Con agenda.

Currently the field on the right has been whittled down to four, but it is really just two. Trump and Cruz. I'm skeptical of both of them, since their politics prove more liberal than I would like.

Trump says the obvious things that should encourage and motivate all red-blooded Americans with his rhetoric to shut down the open borders and kick out the Muslims. His venues are packed with flag waving supporters, and he seems to be winning most of the Primaries and Caucuses so far, which has put the Republican Old Guard on the defensive, since they apparently don't feel they can control him. Plus, the Mexican President officially hates him for promising to make Mexico pay for building the soon to be wall on our southern border.

The Chinese Communist governments has warned Americans not to elect him, "or else!" He says he wants to audit the IRS, and during one debate accused the Bush family, and Jeb Bush in particular, of complicity in the 9-11 attacks. Jeb dropped out of the race the next day. Wow, the more I think about it, the more I like his rhetoric.

Dear Father in Heaven, forgive our nation of our horrible sins, and send US revival and repentance. I know we don't deserve a Christian hero as President, but we desperately need one. Even so Lord, Come Quick!

Interesting Email

Trump is prophetically paralleled by Jehu. What was Jehu's big accomplishment? He was an outsider, not spiritual, drove furiously and was unwanted by his fellow Israelites. What did he accomplish?He got rid of Jezebel. (any similarities you see?) ... Is Trump our Jehu?

1. Ahab and Jezebel lived in an ivory house (1 Kings 22:39); the Clintons lived in the White House.
2. Ahab was the king, but Jezebel controlled behind the scenes; Bill was the president, but Hillary controlled behind the scenes.
3. Ahab and Jezebel became involved in a land deal (1 Kings 21); The Clintons were involved in the Whitewater land deal.
4. Ahab and Jezebel's land deal fell through (1 Kings 21); Whitewater fell through.
5. An innocent man, Naboth died because of the land deal (1 Kings 21); An innocent man, Vince Foster, died because of Whitewater.

6. Jezebel signed papers involving the land deal (1 Kings 21); Hillary signed papers through the Rose Law Firm.
7. Walking in sin was a light thing to Ahab (1 Kings 16:31); Bill's infidelity was considered irrelevant to many and still is.
8. An enemy was raised up against them; enemies were raised against the Clintons.
9. A lying spirit deceived Ahab (1 Kings 22:22; 2 Chronicles 18:21); Bill lied under oath.
10. Ahab died and Jezebel was left; Hillary remains a political force.
11. and then the best part of all... Jezebel was pushed from the balcony and eaten by the dogs (poor dogs; it's a dirty job but someone has to do it.)

Could God use Trump to destroy Jezebel's career?

Editor's note: In 1 Kings 21:29 it says:

Seest thou how Ahab humbleth himself before me? Because he humbleth himself before me, I will not bring the evil in his days: but in his son's days will I bring the evil upon his house.

Bill Clinton was humbled before America when he had to admit to having sex with Monica Lewinski. What day was that? 9/11/98 at the Annual National Prayer Breakfast with over 100 clergy attending.

Switzerland Follows Iceland in Declaring War Against the Banksters

By Isaac Davis

<http://www.activistpost.com/2015/12/switzerland-follows-iceland-in-declaring-war-against-the-banksters.html>

"If you want to continue to be slaves of the banks and pay the cost of your own slavery, then let bankers continue to create money and control credit."

– Josiah Stamp

Iceland has gained the admiration of populists in recent years by doing that which no other nation in the world seems to be willing or capable of doing: prosecuting criminal bankers for engineering financial collapse for profit.

Their effective revolt against the banking class, who drove the tiny nation into economic crisis in 2008, is the brightest example yet that the world does not have to be indebted in perpetuity to an austere and criminal wealthy elite. In 2015, 26 Icelandic bankers were sentenced to prison and the government ordered a bank sale to benefit the citizenry.

Inspired by Iceland's progress, activists in Switzerland are now making an important stand against the banking cartels and have successfully petitioned to bring an initiative to public referendum that would attack the private banks where it matters most: their power to lend money they don't actually have, and to create money out of thin air.

Switzerland will hold a referendum to decide whether to ban commercial banks from creating money. The Swiss federal government confirmed on Thursday that it would hold a plebiscite, after more than 110,000 people signed a petition calling for the central bank to be given sole power to create money in the financial system. [Switzerland's population in 2015 was 8,236,600 people]

The campaign - led by the Swiss Sovereign Money movement and known as the Vollgeld initiative - is designed to limit financial speculation by requiring private banks to hold 100pc reserves against their deposits.

[The Telegraph]

Switzerland is in a key position to play a revolutionary role in changing how global banking functions. In addition to being the world's safest harbor for storing wealth, it is also home to the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), a shadowy private company owned by many of the world's central banks, and acting as a lender to the central banks. The BIS is the very heart of global reserve banking, the policy that enables banks to lend money that does not actually exist in their bank deposits, but is instead literally created electronically from nothing whenever a bank extends a line of credit.

Reserve banking is the policy that guarantees insurmountable debt as the outcome of all financial transactions.

The Sovereign Money initiative in Switzerland aims to curb financial speculation, which is the intended and inevitable result of reserve banking, the tool that makes financial adventurism possible by supplying the banks with endless quantities of fiat money.

Limiting a bank's ability to produce money from nothing would be a direct blow to the roots of the banking cartel, and would cripple their ability to manipulate the world economy. Here's how it works, in rather simplified terms:

...if we had access to the same computer terminals the banks have, we could magic in or out of existence all the imaginary stuff we are trained to think of as important - money - in whatever quantities we liked.

This is how it works: when they print quite a lot of this stuff there is a boom. When they print too much of it, there is inflation (actually, the printing of money is inflation). When they stop printing it or simply hold on to it, there is a depression. [https://www.rt.com/op-edge/327191-switzerland-money-banks-ban-referendum/]

In Switzerland, 90% of all money in circulation is electronic, and for this, The National Bank of Switzerland has become the direct target of the Sovereign Money Campaign. Swiss law has in the past required banks to back all currency creation with collateral assets like physical silver or gold, however in recent decades the climate has changed, and, "due to the emergence of electronic payment transactions, banks have regained the opportunity to create their own money."

The grassroots campaign said in a public statement regarding the intentions of the referendum, "banks won't be able to create money for themselves any more, they'll only be able to lend money that they have from savers or other banks."

This is an interesting twist in the human saga of man vs. banks, and while it remains to be seen if the referendum passes or not, it must be pointed out that it does have its own problems, articulated by Sam Gerrans:

... it does say that the central bank should be given sole right to create money. This would essentially leave the creation of money in the same hands as those who control the Federal Reserve or the Bank of England rather than allow them to farm out the process. But at least it shows that people are beginning to wake up to where the true power lies.

In the unlikely event that this grass-roots movement in Switzerland should get its way and its proposed legislation be enacted, and then begin to morph into something which really does threaten the banking elite, we must not be surprised if Switzerland is shortly discovered to be harboring weapons of mass destruction, or to have masterminded 9/11, or to be financing Islamic State.

Part of the cultural conditioning of our time is an ingrained, presumed dependency on sacred cow institutions like banking. Just like it is impossible for most Americans to envision a world without Democrats and Republicans, it is difficult for most people to imagine a world without predatory global banking.

Yet, there are a number of other possibilities for trading, storing wealth, and facilitating development in the world. This is not the only economic system we can imagine, and as Iceland has proven, people can regain control of their collective wealth, so perhaps this revolution will foment further in Switzerland, presenting a chance to at least bring greater awareness to the truth about central banking.

TO THE ISLES AFAR OFF

by Robert C. Harvey

This is the remarkable account of how Christianity was brought from the Holy Land to the British Isles in the first century—and then from these Isles on to Rome. The book traces the role of Joseph of Arimathea in the founding of the British Church and explores the Church's deep Celtic roots. It was researched and written by an Anglican Bishop who has spent a lifetime walking the paths of history, legend, and faith. Intelligent, thought provoking, beautifully written, and impossible to forget, To The Isles Afar Off is a must read for anyone who is interested in British history or the history of the British Church. Mr. Harvey correctly identifies the people of Britain as descendants of Israel.
