“Saying Mrs. Clinton’s not being indicted so vote for her” is like saying I should hire Casey Anthony to babysit since she was found not guilty.

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK: If Hillary Would Have Been Indicted....

If FBI Director James Comey would have prosecuted criminal Hillary, Comey would have become the fall guy. You know it and the American people know this to be a fact as well. I'm certainly not praising Comey's decision concerning Hillary, however, his statement with regard to Hillary just may have done her more harm than good. While he cleared her of prosecution in the email scandal, he did not clear her presence of guilt. Her public image has clearly been damaged, so much so, that Trump sounds more and more like a "shoo-in" for the office of President of the United States.

Never forget dear friends that God Almighty is in charge and He rules in the affairs of men. When I think of crooked Hillary, I often think of the old tower of Babel that became the end of those men who were trying to become as gods in their day (Genesis 11:1-9). In other words, they were trying to build a one-world government in order to bring the people into a globalistic Babylonian system. Their goal was to reach unto heaven, the believed realm of God that they might be thought of as gods. How better to control the people if you can get them to worship your (perceived) image. The whole Babylon thing from Genesis to Revelation's Mystery Babylon is about worshipping the beast system, which is always run by people with an insatiable appetite for power and control. The original Assyrian term "bab-ilu" meant "gate of god." Hillary desperately wants to be one of the gods of globalism.

Hillary and playboy Bill are nothing but rats in Yahweh's maze of life and they are mere wicked pawns of His Divine Purposes for His creation. Even if she becomes President, which I highly doubt, as I see something afoot by King Jesus that seem to indicate to me as well as many of you, that change just might be in the making against the globalist. Let's pray this is to be!

Jeremiah 17:18

Let them be confounded that persecute me, but let not me be confounded: let them be dismayed, but let not me be dismayed: bring upon them the day of evil, and destroy them with double destruction.

Is the World Providing Racial Harmony?

Of course not! The truth is that the world outside of King Jesus and His blessed Word will never be able to provide racial harmony. Outside of clearly drawn Biblical guidelines and principles, nobody will be at peace or happy. Even "Christians" who pray on their knees every day, read and trust God's Word and do their Christian duty will not be happy in this corrupt world environment. Only when King Jesus Christ is honored and His Word is abided by in society and in government shall true peace and happiness be upon the nations. It may sound like an impossibility to some of you presently, but let me assure you, His Kingdom is coming. Man's kingdoms are falling!

The Dallas shooter, a black man, a black Muslim, a black racist, a black murderer, a black terrorist, and list goes on, said that he "WANTED TO KILL WHITE PEOPLE, ESPECIALLY WHITE OFFICERS." The list of police officers that have been gunned down in the line of duty has been growing and it is clear that they have been targeted by black people, especially by members of "BLACK LIVES MATTER." The problem will not go away because the problem is multiculturalism and racial unrest by some ill-gotten concept of racial equality. The answer is Biblical separation of the races where people live among their own kind and exist within that sphere, except to conduct established and properly laid out rules of trade that are not bound by treaty, but bound by Biblical principles. That however, would be a different subject matter.

Under Obama, racial division and unrest has escalated. He, of course, is not the only culprit, as racial problems have always existed because we have not followed God's Word. We are up to our necks with bureaucratic regulations, quotas, and integration policies. Way back in the 60's, the federal government created new regulations called "forced busing" knowing It would promote more racial-tension, rebellion, and anger among White people, as one of governments grand design of "social-engineering." I'm sure many liberals were sure it would bring about their utopian world view, but as usual man is WRONG whenever he ignores God's Law. Forced busing was just one of many mechanisms government used to drive a racial-wedge into the nation. The government always has to push the ethnic barometer to the point of mindless irritation that has caused White people to rebel, resist, and yes, "HATE." In reality, White people offer the best haven of safety and sanity within the nation. "White -flight" has increased to various areas of White safe zones, Sandpoint, Idaho just so happens to be one of those few remaining safe zones.

It is a fact that White Adamic Israel people are the Abrahamic Israel people who are under the Jacob-Israel Covenant to be a blessing in the world. If somehow, the Covenant people were to disappear, gross darkness would be upon the earth in unspeakable barbarity. There must be a separation and we must admit that multiculturalism is a failed humanistic operation. The world needs to hear that the Abrahamic Covenant people have the answer and that answer is the Word of God. The world must hear, and they eventually will, that separation of the races is a paramount Biblical solution. We must go back to having the borders of nations as God's Word decrees. This will not only bless Israel, but will bless the world. Furthermore, we cannot be a blessing to the other nations without establishing Christianity as the ONLY RELIGION allowed in our land.

One last word of advice dear friends, as you know we are living in dangerous times. Do your best to stay out of jail. Stay safe and alert. The tares are raising their heads and as his wheat people we must bow in humble submission to Christ our King, being filled with His Divine Word, awaiting the day of His deliverance.

Sympathy for Sodomites? Not Here!

Leviticus 20:13

If a man also lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

Leviticus 18:22

Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.

Romans 1:27-30

²⁸ And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient;

³⁰ Backbiters, haters of God

First, if I may be so bold as to ask? Are we really sure what we are being told happened in Orlando really happened? I wonder, just as I wonder about what we were told happened concerning 9/11 and a host of other events. But if the Orlando sodomite bar event did really happen, here's some thoughts.

I'm Sticking with the Bible

Should Christians be rallying behind the queers and pour out their sympathy for this sodomite "tragedy?" Are we to now as whole Bible believing Christians, somehow blot out the strong Biblical statements against queers and open our hearts with sympathy for those sodomites who were attacked? Not me, and I'm equally certain none of you were passing around the handkerchief to catch any possible tears of sadness. Perhaps you did so to wipe away tears of joy.

All the media are falling all over themselves with sympathy for these devils. Especially the "sacred" FOX in the henhouse News channel. They are not conservatives, nor are they "fair and balanced", but even more importantly, they are NOT Bible believing Christians. They are mere humanists with a tinge of "conservativism." They are perverters of the highest order. They are media whores. Just think about all their mostly blonde female beauties and all the estrogen babel. Here's an idea FOX? How about throwing in some females who aren't all dolled up for sex-appeal. Give us some females if you must, who have Godly virtues. I'd rather listen to an ugly female with Biblical reason and Godly character any day.

Sodomites are terrorists as far as I'm concerned. They are filthy disgusting people and I'm sure most of us are repulsed by their perversion. They love to flaunt their bodies in perverse ways in public, openly spew filth out of their mouths, and force their "gay-agenda" ways on the public.

Is their "tragedy" somehow now our tragedy as well? No, their tragic lives are upon them. They are walking talking accidents waiting to happen according to the Bible. Would they care if the roles were reversed and Christians were killed? No, you know as well as I know that they would be celebrating in their queer ways and laughing at us if the situation were reversed. I'm somewhat amazed at all this queer sympathy which is being displayed, that some of the media and "conservatives" are actually calling for war and saying that something must be done. Really, are you parents willing to send your sons and daughters off to war to die for sodomites? I didn't think so.

These sodomites are not innocent victims and they are not normal

Wow, what an opportunity for the government and more tyranny. Remember their motto, "Never let a crisis go to waste." God's Word still stands and it is to be our standard. Therefore, Jesus Christ and His Word are the target of the wicked and shall remain so until the wicked are removed. Yes, there will be a rapture alright, a rapture of the wicked. In the days of Noah's flood, the wicked were taken away and the righteous left.

Matthew 24:38-40

³⁸ For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

³⁹ And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

⁴⁰ Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

What are we to think of the Judeo-Christian response? Well, to a large degree they have poured out their heart and empathized with the homosexuals on many levels. They have bought the lie that homosexuals are born that way. Not all of them thank God, but is that how Bible believing Christ honoring Christians are to react to this "homosexual tragedy?"

Should Christians be saying things like "We stand with our gay brethren," or "Why can't we all just get along," or "We support the gay community in this tragedy?" NO!

Should this "tragic-event" of a Muslim idiot killing 49 homosexuals draw Christians into some type of solidarity with them? Should a candidate for office be pledging his or her support to the gay community and pour out their love and affect for them? I say, "Not if you're a Christian."

How about this response, if you truly are a Christian? (I'LL KEEP IT SWEET): "As you all know, I am a Christian, and the Word of God clearly states that the homosexual life-style is wrong. This killing of some 49 people at this homosexual bar in Orlando does not change what the Bible clearly states concerning homosexuality. As a Christian, I stand upon the truth of God's Word and if America wants to be blessed, the American people will also stand upon its time honoring truth." Say something like this and let King Jesus handle the rest.

Think about how the queers have used their queer judges and courts to sue innocent hard-working people like the recent Christian cake makers who refused to bake a "marriage-cake" for sodomites. The queers sued these good people for some $135,000.00, with the government's help.

Outrageous! Who was more loving, this Muslim murderer, or the sue-happy queers? Hey, any of you sodomites who may be reading this, who was more of a danger to your queer life, the Christian baker, or the Muslim killer? I wonder?

We were constantly being lectured by the sodomite lovers "stop the hate." That's all the progressive liberals do is hate. They especially hate Christians, do they not? They hate the Bible, and oddly enough, they hate prayer, or do they?

Have you ever heard so much media hypocrisy in your life as in this sodomite Orlando killing spree with regard to PRAYER? Oh yes, it was mind numbing. Why to hear the media, you'd almost think this was a Christian nation. Constantly, all the liberal Christ hating media were telling the sodomites "Our prayers are with you." Really? What God were they praying unto? It sure wasn't unto Christ Jesus.

One things for sure, we can all look for more of our freedoms and liberties to be taken away by our tyrannical government. We the people are the victims as usual. This whole sick thing plays into the narrative of government overreaching for more and more power. So look for more tyranny on the horizon. Look for more war. And, never forget, wars are Jewish harvest!

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE PEOPLE OF GREAT BRITAIN

It is Friday morning, the 24th of June 2016, and I am celebrating yesterday's vote in which our British brethren voted to leave the European Union. It's just a good start, but one in which we all should be blessed by, for it is certainly a step in the right direction. Nigel Farage, a member of the European Parliament for South East England, and leader of the United Kingdom Independence Party, said that the 23rd of June is now the "Independence-Day" of the United Kingdom. He also said that Independence was achieved "without a single-bullet being fired." There's something "spiritual" about this that I will speak of later in this article, but we must also understand that words are very powerful, especially Words that are God inspired and stated at the right moment in time.

Clearly our people, civil-minded people, God fearing people, are sick and tired of being over-run by alien hoards who come to our nations, not to bless our nation or honor our laws and certainly not our Christian ways or beliefs, but to usurp and overthrow the White Western civilization. There is no disputing the fact that in addition to other reasons, one of the main reason British voters wanted out of the European Union, is because an oligarchy of alien leaders as heads of the EU opened the door for Islamic Christ hating Muslims to blanket their country. All the end-time nations of Christendom need a house cleaning of all various antichrist types. This will happen eventually; the Word of God declares this fact.

Jeremiah 1:16

And I will utter my judgments against them touching all their wickedness, who have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands.

Remember, England has existed over 2,000 years before the EU. This EU is not a liberating union. To the contrary, it has been, and would continue to be with ever-increasing control, a beast system which would eventually suffocate the life out of England, and all other countries attached to this nation-destroying EU system. The controlled media was constantly telling the people financial lies that would fill their hearts with fear about the future. This is always their method for getting the people to submissively bow-down to their demands. The question is, will the British people merely be satisfied to say “No” and do nothing further, or will they seek to really understand the treasonous methods and purposes of the wicked in “high-places,” who deceived them? Is it God’s time to release them from the EU Bondage?

Many dangers still abound in lots of areas, but there is no doubt the enemy, Edomites, and the rest of them, are raging mad about this vote to “come out of her (Babylon) my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins” Rev 18:4. Obviously, what happened is not a death blow to the enemies of Christ and His Kingdom, but it does have the potential to develop into a national awakening, perhaps with a Biblical resolve. This I know, and you should as well, the Lord Jesus Christ rules and reigns according to His Sovereign Purposes whether we understand His Purposes or not. We should all give King Jesus the honor and glory for what has occurred in England, as the Brits have, at this particular time delivered a crushing blow to the head of the beast system, and King Jesus has opened the door for them to do so.

There is no doubt in my mind that much prayer was offered up concerning this EU beast systems' grip over the United Kingdom, and make no mistake about it, this EU is a major chunk of the global puzzle for one world government. Yes, EU Humpty-Dumpty sat on the wall of Babylon, but Humpty-Dumpty had a great fall, and all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't put Humpty-Dumpty back together again.

Boris Johnson in this defining moment of Britain's separation from the EU said, "There is simply no need in the 21st century to be part of a federal system of government based in Brussels." Well AMEN to that, and why can't the American people not also apply this understanding to our federal system out of Washington D.C.? Are the various states throughout the American union to always dismiss coming out of the bondage of our corrupt authoritarian federal government? Is state independence really that unthinkable and impossible? Are we to hide from this possibility because of the sad, brutal reality of the America War Between the States? Must there be a bloody war again to achieve such a vision, or can we like the Brits do it without bloodshed? Can we not see beyond the physical to the Spiritual? Friends, I believe there is an anointing of Truth that must come forward. Such a Spiritual Truth (at the Divinely appointed time) that will open the minds and hearts of the people to want and have freedom from federal tyranny. A Biblically based freedom towards a Jubilee in which the land will be removed from federal control to that which belongs to the people.

As with the call in various areas throughout the United States for state independence, so is there a call from Scotland and Ireland for their independence from the United Kingdom. Yes, Northern Ireland's Deputy First Minister Martin McGuinness has called for a referendum for a United Ireland. This just after the United Kingdom voted to leave the EU.

By the way, all "wars" are pretty much banker instigated in one form or another. The EU banking powers, along with various powerful Wall-Street bankers, including the Federal Reserve banks, were heavily involved in the Remain campaign to keep the Brits in the European Union. Clearly high-finance corporations, including entrenched political cronyism, conspired together to keep the UK under EU control. So in a way, can we not also see that what has happened in the UK might also be the just another wonderful sound of Mystery Babylon falling?

After the vote, former mayor of London, Boris Johnson said the UK had a "glorious opportunity" to re-establish itself. Yes, but not with a globalist mindset. Britain can only separate from the EU with a Biblical resolve. Some of you will think Pastor Barley has perhaps lost his mind to dare think in such a lofty determination. Is it really so unthinkable to dare dream and aspire to have Kingdom of God hopes and objectives? May it never be so! May it ever be so to align ourselves with Christ and His Kingdom Purposes.

I believe what has happened (to whatever degree) is clearly a part of the Israel Covenant that Yahweh promised to His Isaac-sons. When Christ's Disciples and a small gathering of fellow Israelite brethren were gathered just prior to Christ ascension, the question was asked:

Acts 1:6-7

6 When they (Israelites) therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

The Kingdom IS to be restored unto Israel, and as we know, Britain is a major fulfillment of that end-time Kingdom. Christ's Kingdom is coming despite the fact that many only see Mystery Babylon's power. When or how, we know not, but this we do know, Jesus Christ is coming to take the tares out of the Kingdom. Never lose sight or hope of this Holy Event.

Here is another blessed truth from the Word of God we must take heart in:

John 10:11, 14-16:

11 I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep...

14 I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine.

15 As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

Christ is speaking to two groups of Israelites. First He is speaking to the non-divorced “sheep” of the Southern Kingdom of Judah. The second group He was speaking to were the “other sheep” who were the divorced, lost, Gentilized Northern House of Israel. These verses, contrary to how Judeo-Christians interpret them are referring to the great day in which Christ will, according to the New Covenant (Hebrews 8:8-10), restore both Houses of Israelite sheep into one fold. Could the present victory of Brittan seceding from the European Union under the leadership of Boris Johnson and Nigel Farage, and America under the leadership of Donald Trump, be used of God as a bonding of Britain and America towards an eventual uniting of Ephraim and Manasseh? We'll have to wait and see.

I love to think of such Biblical things, as I am sure most of you do as well. To look as our father Abraham did, for that “city, whose builder and maker is Almighty God.” Hebrews 11:10 What an inspirational thing to do. To be a people who never step back in the Faith, but move forward in the Faith, standing upon the Rock. Psalms 27:3-6

3 Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident.

4 One thing have I desired of the LORD, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the LORD ALL the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the LORD, and to inquire in his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion: in the secret of his tabernacle shall he hide me; he shall set me up upon a rock.

6 And now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy; I will sing, yea, I will sing praises unto the LORD.

Biblical Divine Wisdom is to be Our Education

Above all else, God's Covenant People need Divine Wisdom. With all the plethora of problems surrounding us today, there is an ever increasing demand for Godly Wisdom and understanding. What people are thinking Biblically in today world? It is certainly not the antichrists, atheists, sodomites, communists, socialists, liberal progressives, or even republicans.

Actually, most “Christians” are not even thinking Biblically in the overall scope of things, as many of them refuse to think within the precepts of God's Law Word. Even the fact that most Judeo-Christians seem to think affectionately upon Jewish requirements and ultimatums show that overall, most people clearly do not think or reason with Godly Biblical wisdom. We are told in James 1:5.

If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

The truth is, we have been presented a big fat lie in the liberal push for us to get educated within their (humanistic) dialectic learning system. When the Bible tells Christians to “come out of her (Mystery Babylon) and be not partakers of her sins,” Rev 18:4, this certainly includes the beast systems indoctrination schools.

Parents should take back the paramount duty of educating their own children. Christian parents must pursue and insist upon their children being provided a solid Bible based education and they need to stand strong as Babylon attempts to wrestle their God given parental right away from them.

Yes, this will require faith and courage, but are we not called to do this? Is it not our Biblical responsibility and not Babylon's? It's not as though we are without help in this faithful endeavor as there are lots of various home-school books, classes, and most of them are actually Christian. Certainly parents are to monitor what their children are reading and what type of material their children are being presented, but please know anything you do will be better than the indoctrinating anti-Christ public school system.

James 3:17

But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy.

Here again the Bible speaks of “wisdom”, and any wisdom outside Divine Word insight is destructive. In other words, wisdom outside of the Divine Word is actually impure and will have a corrupting influence upon the heart and mind of our children. We must reorganize our lives and put this first!

We have to start resisting Babylon rather than rationalizing its power and that somehow it is Ok for us to participate with its evil programs and not be demoralized. Oh yes, I know many of you will say “evil programs,” are you kidding me pastor? Certainly I do believe the Lord Jesus Christ can protect our children in this educational beast system and that we should continually pray for them and help them any way we possibly can. However, do not forget this:

Proverbs 9:10

The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is understanding.

These are not just nice Biblical thoughts that we can just passively pay attention to. This is Word of God Wisdom. In fact, when the above verse says “knowledge of holy,” it literally means knowledge of God’s Will, Plan, and Purposes. These are dark-days we are living in because we have not been living by the Bread-Word of Life. For the most part, people have been eating up the scraps they have been fed by the tares among us and drinking the poisoned Kool-Aid of ruination.

Far too long, Christians have had their heads in the sand thinking if they see no evil, hear no evil, it might not be as bad as they think. Now we know such lackadaisical faith has only aided the enemy and caused a virus of corruption to spread throughout the Covenant Israel community. The public school system is an indoctrinational system and it is also a “weapon,” according to that mass murderer Joseph Stalin:

"Education is a weapon whose effects depend on who holds it in his hands and at whom it is aimed." - Joseph Stalin

When we see the “public forced educational system” for what it really is, a weapon in the hands of our enemy, the scales upon our understanding start coming off and we see the reality of our dilemma.

Let’s take hold of future by doing things God’s way.

Orlando Shooting

by Paul Craig Roberts June 13, 2016

<http://www.paulcraigroberts.org/2016/06/13/orlando-shooting-paul-craig-roberts/>

Some readers have asked for my take on the Orlando Shooting.

I don't have one. Let's see if together we can form a reasonable view.

Let's start with the basic first question. Before there can be a murder declared, there must be a body. Has anyone seen on TV or in newspapers pictures of dead bodies? Bodies should be readily available if the reports are correct that fifty people were killed and 50 or more were wounded and in hospital.

I cannot bear the prostitute TV and print media. These are full-time propaganda organizations. Hopefully, some of you hold your nose and watch the news and can fill in the spaces. Has anything we have been told been confirmed by any real evidence?

Initially, I saw a CNN newscast and a RT report. The reports were heavy with verbiage of blood being all over the place, but the only visual evidence offered were three people, supposedly injured, being helped, not by medics or first responders, but by ordinary folks. A couple of people were helping a guy with tattoos in place of a shirt, but there was no sign of blood. Several people were helping people in police uniforms to carry a person who they dumped in the back of a pickup truck, not in the cab. About 6 people were carrying a person stretched out prone (no stretcher) down a street.

There was no blood and it looked like a crisis acting performance. Why prone? Is an injured person really able to keep his body stiff so that he can be carried along prone parallel to the ground? Where are they taking him? Is this just a camera walk-by?

<http://www.cnn.com/videos/us/2016/06/12/orlando-nightclub-shooting-witness-sot.cnn/video/playlists/orlando-nightclub-shooting/>

What has become of the protocol that untrained people are not to attempt to help injured people? When police arrive at a scene, they usually run off bystanders, not recruit them to assist their activities or allow them to carry away the wounded and dead.

Readers have noticed that the visual evidence does not match the verbal reports. Readers report that Fox “News” and MSNBC repeatedly show the same footage described above of bystanders carrying supposedly injured victims whose facial expressions are completely unstressed and show no pain, fear, or blood.

So has anyone seen any dead bodies? Any body bags? Any wounded taken to hospitals in ambulances? Any of the hospital wounded interviewed by TV reporters? Has any reporter checked with the morgue?

Allegedly, people inside the massacre location made cell phone calls and texted. But no one took photos or videos? Are there no security cameras? No doormen to notice a heavily armed person enter? With 50 people killed and 50 or more wounded and reports of oceans of blood, there should be plenty of evidence. Have any of you seen any of it?

As far as I know, dead bodies, other than those of the perpetrators themselves, seldom if ever emerge from the terrorist attacks. No dead bodies materialized from the Paris attacks except those of the alleged perpetrators. No dead bodies ever emerged from the Sandy Hook shootings. The only dead bodies I recall from the San Bernardino shooting were the husband-and-wife-alleged-perpetrators, and their hands were handcuffed behind their backs. Do police handcuff dead people who the police have shot to pieces? I don’t remember dead bodies from Brussels, just reports of dead bodies.

One could say that the media is averse to invading the privacy of dead people and their relatives by showing dead bodies, or that the media doesn’t want to show gruesome scenes—except for the videos of Muslim terrorists cutting off people’s heads. But by now the unanswered questions from the various shootings have created so much skepticism that a person would think the media would provide corroborative evidence for the official claims. Maybe they have. As I admit, I don’t watch the presstitute news.

In order to shoot 100 people, the principal weapon allegedly used, an AR-15, would have had to have been reloaded several times, a procedure that takes enough time for people to rush the shooter and overpower him.

Is it possible for one person to shoot 100 people successfully but not be able to shoot even one cop when police appear? Remember the Charlie Hebdo event. The two killers were highly professional when they wiped out the magazine staff and a policeman in the street, but later when confronted by police they were so hapless and incompetent as to suggest that they were not the same people. Remember the San Bernardino shootings. Three eyewitnesses said that the shooters were three muscular males dressed in black, not a husband and diminutive wife with a new baby.

What is most troublesome about these shootings is that the story seems already prepared by the government and is immediately set. We are fed the story before there is time for investigation by government or media. The media never investigate. The media just repeat the government's story over and over until it is set in everyone's mind. Contrary evidence is just discarded.

The alleged perpetrators are always killed, so we never hear from them. The only survivor of the various terrorisms is the younger Tsarnaev brother who has been held incommunicado. We have never heard directly from him.

One might think that by now the US media would have at least a smidgen of skepticism. After all, for the past 15 years we have wasted trillions of dollars in wars in the Middle East based on lies that Saddam Hussein had weapons of mass destruction and Assad used chemical weapons against his own people. So why is the media willing to accept whatever the government says without any investigation or even raising a question?

The chairman, co-chairman, and legal counsel of the official 9/11 Commission have said publicly that the commission was lied to by the US government, that information was withheld from the commission, and that the commission was "set up to fail." If the government will not tell the truth to the 9/11 Commission, why would the government tell us peons the truth?

It is not reporting merely to repeat the government's claim. But that is all we get from the payroll jobs, unemployment and inflation reports to terrorism reports and claims of "Russian aggression."

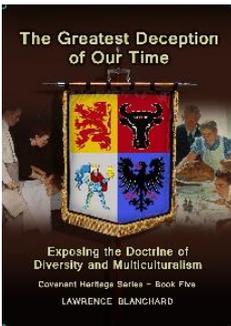

Send your emails with URLs of news broadcasts showing dead bodies and other real evidence. Don't send in your speculations. They might be interesting and on the mark, but what we are trying to do is to see if there is any real evidence in behalf of this latest story of mass slaughter inside a night club.

It will be difficult, perhaps even impossible, to get any truth out of the Orlando shooting. Too many vocal and well organized interest groups have a strong stake in the government's explanation. It comes to the aid of the anti-Muslim lobby and the Trump campaign which want Muslims kept out of the US and those here arrested and deported. It comes to the aid of the gun control lobby. It comes to the aid of the progressive-left that wants to normalize homosexual and transgendered people, thus the outpouring of sympathy for those shot in the homosexual night club. It comes to the aid of the spy industry and the police state that want no check on their activities. It comes to the aid of Washington's murderous foreign policy—so what if we blow up Muslim children—look what they do to us when they grow up, which is what the Israelis say about the Palestinians. It comes to the aid of the neoconservatives and the military-security complex for whom wars against Muslims advance their agenda and fatten their pocketbook.

All of these interests are far more powerful than the right of peons to know the truth.

New Book #5 in the Covenant Heritage Series by Dr. Lawrence Blanchard is HERE!

This book exposes the political and religious influences that have no transformed the historic, Northwestern European nations into a multiracial and multicultural “melting pot.” The result has been increasing fear, crime, divisiveness and destruction. #861 Sugg. The Sorceries of Mystery Babylon

By Martha Barley

Revelation 18:23

*And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived.

Just what are the sorceries of Mystery Babylon? When we look at the Greek word this word comes from, we find that it is: pharmakeia - medication ("pharmacy"), i.e. (by extension) magic (literally or figuratively):—sorcery, witchcraft.

We are seeing the above verse played out through the Pharmaceutical Industry. The Pharmaceutical Industry controls our media, the CDC, they fund the medical schools and own many of our politicians and is the largest special interest group and is killing people with their medicines. They are KNOWINGLY producing medicines and vaccines that do harm.

Most doctors simply trust what the CDC tells them. We now have proof that scientists and doctors at the CDC have committed the greatest medical fraud in history with MMR vaccine because of the information that Dr. William Thompson has revealed. He has been given whistleblower status and has been waiting since 2014 to testify before Congress. But Congress is not calling for that because they get most of their financial backing from the pharmaceutical industry.

Barbara Loe Fisher, Director of NVIC (National Vaccine Information Center) gives us this history of vaccine safety in America.

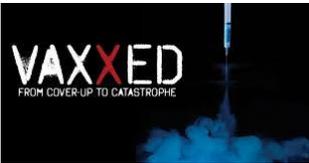

<http://www.nvic.org/NVIC-Vaccine-News/March-2011/No-Pharma-Liability--No-Vaccine-Mandates-.aspx>

On February 22, 2011 the U.S. Supreme Court shielded drug companies from all liability for harm caused by vaccines mandated by government when companies could have made a safer vaccine. From now on, drug companies selling vaccines in America will not be held accountable by a jury of our peers in a court of law if those vaccines brain damage us but could have been made less toxic.

If you get paralyzed by a flu shot or your child has a serious reaction to a vaccine required for school and becomes learning disabled, epileptic, autistic, asthmatic, diabetic or mentally retarded, you are on your own.

Playing now in theatres all across the country is the most important documentary of our lives! Please go see it and encouraging everyone you know to do the same.

Vaxxed: From Cover-up to Catastrophe

<http://vaxxedthemovie.com/>

In 2013, biologist Dr. Brian Hooker received a call from a Senior Scientist at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) who led the agency's 2004 study on the Measles-Mumps-Rubella (MMR) vaccine and its link to autism.

The scientist, Dr. William Thompson, confessed that the CDC had omitted crucial data in their final report that revealed a causal relationship between the MMR vaccine and autism. Over several months, Dr. Hooker records the phone calls made to him by Dr. Thompson who provides the confidential data destroyed by his colleagues at the CDC.

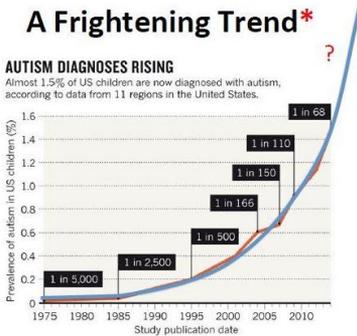

Dr. Hooker enlists the help of Dr. Andrew Wakefield, the British gastroenterologist falsely accused of starting the anti-vax movement when he first reported in 1998 that the MMR vaccine may cause autism. In his ongoing effort to advocate for children's health, Wakefield directs this documentary examining the evidence behind an appalling cover-up committed by the government agency charged with protecting the health of American citizens.

Interviews with pharmaceutical insiders, doctors, politicians, and parents of vaccine-injured children reveal an alarming deception that has contributed to the skyrocketing increase of autism and potentially the most catastrophic epidemic of our lifetime.

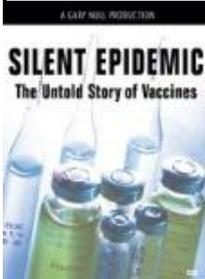

The data that was ignored and manipulated showed that two groups of children are at risk of autism is African American boys, and ALL CHILDREN WHO WERE HEALTHY UNTIL AGE ONE! A child is diagnosed with autism every seven minutes! Over 1,000,000 children are diagnosed with autism in America! It is a worldwide man-made epidemic.

Please tell your friends that vaccines are neither safe or effective and the MMR does cause autism in large populations of children. There are 300 vaccines currently in the pipeline.

There is a lot of information available on vaccinations. For those of you who want to share this information with family members I highly recommend this DVD that you can order from us.

*K. Weintraub, Nature 479, Nov. 3 2011, 22-24.

Silent Epidemic, by award winning film director Gary Null, is the first documentary to investigate thoroughly the true medical record and the historical evidence about vaccine marvels. Conventional medicine has herald the invention of vaccines as a miracle of modern science. However, does the science support these claims and what are the untold consequences?

It's Time to Stop Pretending All Religions Are Equal

by Matt Walsh <http://themattwalshblog.com>

I walked into the living room this morning and my wife was watching the news. She said “another terrorist attack” with all the shock and surprise of a person observing that the sun had risen in the east or water had turned to ice in the freezer. It’s not that she didn’t care, or that I don’t, but this is all a part of the standard procedure now. Brush your teeth, put on your shoes, watch the news coverage about an Islamic terrorist attack, walk the dog. And so on and so on and so on. The only really shocking thing anymore is that nothing is shocking anymore.

As you know, this one was in Belgium. One explosion at a subway station in Brussels and another two blasts at the Brussels airport. Dozens dead. Hundreds injured. And so on and so on and so on. Of course, the only thing more routine than Muslims slaughtering mass numbers of innocents is how people react to it here in America. The same old arguments, amounting to nothing.

President Barack Obama stopped flapping his limp wrists in Cuba long enough to deliver a quick and empty statement about the attacks. He called for “unity” and spewed a few other dull platitudes that have no meaning. And so on and so on and so on.

Speaking of amounting to nothing, I vented my frustration on Twitter, because what else can I do? I said I’m sick of hearing about the great benefits of multiculturalism. Europe is drowning in a tidal wave of unassimilated Muslims who are actively hostile to Europe’s culture, or what’s left of it. And for their trouble, Europeans are being gang raped in the street at night and blown to pieces during their morning commute.

Diversity is a strength, they tell me, but I have seen no evidence to support this doctrine. Diversity of thought might be a strength, but even then it is only a strength if the thought is rational and directed towards truth. The nonsensical thoughts of relativistic nincompoops are not valuable or helpful.

Similarly, racial and cultural diversity does not enrich us if we lose our identity in the process. When you throw a bunch of people with diametrically opposed beliefs and values and priorities into a food processor and hit frappe, you end up with a smoothie that tastes an awful lot like the collapse of western civilization and the rise of barbarians.

I didn’t say all of that on Twitter, what with the character limit, but that was my point. I also said I'm sick of the religious equivalences. Every time Muslims kill a bunch of people, secular liberals start in with their standard attempts to prove Christians are just as bad. It seems nothing will ever convince them that perhaps Islam is somewhat unique in its capacity for violence and atrocities.

So, naturally, my protests against equivalences were met with equivalences. A bunch of leftists told me Christianity and Islam are equal because of, among other things, a series of 11th century military campaigns. And so on and so on and so on. But it got even more absurd. Leftists are so desperate to draw parallels between Christianity and Islam that one of them attempted to mitigate the Brussels attack by reminding me about the Christians who took over a nature reserve in Oregon a few weeks ago.

Me: "Muslims keep blowing things up."

Liberals: "Yeah but Christians trespassed on a wildlife refuge in Oregon!"

God help us.

I know this is probably a futile effort, but, in light of this umpteenth Islamic terrorist attack this year, I want to concentrate on this Christianity vs. Islam comparison for a moment. I know I probably will never convince leftists to stop idolizing multiculturalism and diversity, but perhaps I can convince them to stop pretending Islam and Christianity are on the same playing field. OK, I know I will not convince them of that either, but allow me to waste my breath anyway. Let's start with the fact that we knew the terrorists in Brussels were Muslim without waiting for anyone to confirm it. We always know it without being told. Leftists know it too, but they haven't stopped to ask themselves, if Islam is a peaceful religion, why are Muslims literally the only people in the world setting bombs off in subway stations and airports and theaters and embassies and restaurants. Spin this any way you like, but right now the global terrorism market is a Muslim monopoly. We are certain a terrorist attack was carried out by Muslims the moment the bomb explodes. Shouldn't that tell you something?

There is no Christian terrorism epidemic. That's why nobody stops and says, "Wait, maybe the Brussels airport is covered in blood and debris because a white Presbyterian was trying to make a point about Jesus!" Nobody says that because there is literally zero chance of that being the case. Zero chance. It's not possible. On the extraordinarily rare occasion that a Christian launches a lethal attack against a civilian target in the name of his faith, it's almost always against something like an abortion clinic. And even then, it almost never happens. The last one was months ago, and the dude was psychotic, not religious.

Still, if you count him, that makes about one attack every decade or so, usually with no casualties, carried out against a facility that executes children. Compare that with the endless stream of massive assaults waged in the name of Islam against entirely random and innocent civilians sitting in restaurants or waiting in lines at airports or subway stations. You can't compare them. There is no comparison to be made.

Indeed, the fact that abortion clinics don't have to be fortified and surrounded by 40 armed guards every hour of the day shows just how incredibly effective Christianity is at preventing its adherents from resorting to violence in its name. So, yes, Christianity can lecture other religions about violence. Christianity is much better at standing against violence. Christianity is much more effective at advancing peace in the world. Christianity is just a better religion. It's better. In every way. It's better.

Christianity can lecture other religions about violence.

And it's better not only because far fewer acts of evil are performed in its name, but because many more acts of love and mercy are performed in its name. No other religion sends people out to every decaying and forgotten corner and crevice of this Earth to heal the sick, serve the needy, and minister to the hopeless. No other religion runs nearly as many hospitals, homeless shelters, soup kitchens, etc. [Fulfilling the Abrahamic Covenant]

If you find a group of foreigners digging a well in Guatemala or handing out mosquito nets in Uganda, they're probably Christians. On the other hand, if you find a group of foreigners planting explosives in a subway station, they're probably Muslims.

Christians themselves are flawed, but the faith has had, to put it mildly, an unmistakably positive influence on the world. Right now, as we speak, there are millions upon millions of people across the planet who would not be eating, taking medicine, or sleeping in a warm bed without the concerted efforts of Christians acting at the behest of Scripture. And as a reward, some of them can look forward to being crucified, literally. By Muslims, of course.

Christianity built western civilization. Christianity advanced the doctrine of Natural Law, which serves as the basis for all of our liberties. Christianity defeated slavery and won the fight for civil rights. Christianity had a hand, and sometimes was the only hand, in most every good and decent thing about this world. Christians are not perfect, but Christianity is. And the more Christian the world is, the better the world is. The less, the worse. That's how it's worked for 2,000 years. History has demonstrably proven Christianity to be an objectively necessary and indispensable force for good over and over again.

Equivalence? You cannot begin to find one. There are bad Christians and good Muslims, but if Christianity ceased to exist, millions of people would die. If Islam ceased to exist, millions of people wouldn't. Draw whatever conclusions you want from there, but you cannot conclude that the two are equal.

Christianity, I should note, is also true. It's the only completely true religion. Other religions have arrived at some truths, but Christianity is truth. And because it stands in the fullness of truth, it is capable of bringing a goodness to the world that Islam and other false religions cannot. Christians, individually, are responsible for plenty of evil, but that evil is a result of their rejection of the truth of Christian doctrine. The more they reject it, the worse they are. The more they accept it, the better. Again, history has demonstrated this.

The word "fundamentalist" has a negative connotation because it is so often applied to people who are fundamentalists of fundamentally false ideologies and religions. By definition, if being a fundamentalist of your faith means you are a violent, animalistic savage, that means there is something fundamentally violent, animalistic and savage about your faith. People say "terrorists aren't Muslims — they're fundamentalist Muslims," not realizing they've condemned Islam in an attempt to exonerate it.

But what are Christian fundamentalists? Women who wear long skirts and give birth to more than two kids? Men who go to church and read their Bibles? Unmarried couples who save sex for marriage? Pro-lifers who pray outside of abortion clinics? Bakers who won't make cakes for gay weddings? Nuns? Pastors? Missionaries?

Liberals are fond of saying "fundamentalism" is the problem generally, as if living by your convictions is wrong regardless of the nature of your convictions. Such an idiotic notion can be expected from moral relativists who believe nothing to be fundamentally true, therefore anyone who adheres to any fundamental doctrine, no matter the doctrine, is dangerous.

On the contrary, Christian fundamentalism is a great blessing to society. It makes people peaceful, disciplined, humble, and kind. A Christian fundamentalist opens a pregnancy center to help women. A Muslim fundamentalist drags a woman into the town square and stones her to death.

Equivalence?

Stop it.

Obscure nut jobs like the Westboro Baptists are not Christian fundamentalists. They are apostates. They've fabricated their own fundamentals and sprinkled a little Jesus on top of the fake religion they made up. Christian fundamentalists are only a problem when they are fundamentally dedicated to the fundamentals of their own heresies. But even these Christian heretics aren't often found shooting up Paris to advance their cause. In fact, aside from Islam, the only other truly violent religion in existence is liberalism. The Church of Liberalism advocates and facilitates the murder of a million children a year, dwarfing the death toll of every Muslim terrorist attack this decade combined. The only faith not in a position to lecture Islam, then, is the faith that constantly excuses it. I suppose there's some consistency there, at least.

I've long theorized that liberals rationalize for militant Islam because they sympathize with its methods. This is the basis for the odd alliance — really it's a one-sided alliance — between Western secular leftism and Middle Eastern Islamic extremism. They both share a tolerance for brutality and a hatred for truth. But of the theist religions, Islam is the only one routinely massacring civilians across the world. The only one.

Stop claiming otherwise. Stop equivocating.

Whether you believe in Christianity or not, its superiority is beyond question.

And the fact that it is so superior ought to make you reconsider your decision not to believe it.

By its fruits you shall know it.

We've seen the fruits. The answer is clear.

Here is the story back of the story of America. With a clearness of expression and in a manner making it exceedingly readable, this is the life story of God's servant race from Abraham on through the centuries to the twentieth century here in America.

The key to understanding God's Great Plan is found in recognizing the identity, responsibility and destiny of the People of the Book.

America's Gestapo: The FBI's Reign of Terror

By John W. Whitehead

"We want no Gestapo or secret police. The FBI is tending in that direction. They are dabbling in sex-life scandals and plain blackmail. J. Edgar Hoover would give his right eye to take over, and all congressmen and senators are afraid of him."—President Truman

"Don't Be a Puppet" is the message the FBI is sending young Americans. As part of the government's so-called ongoing war on terror, the nation's de facto secret police force is now recruiting students and teachers to spy on each other and report anyone who appears to have the potential to be "anti-government" or "extremist."

Using the terms "anti-government," "extremist" and "terrorist" interchangeably, the government continues to add to its growing list of characteristics that could distinguish an individual as a potential domestic terrorist. For instance, you might be a domestic terrorist in the eyes of the FBI (and its network of snitches) if you:

- express libertarian philosophies (statements, bumper stickers)
- exhibit Second Amendment-oriented views (NRA or gun club membership)
- read survivalist literature, including apocalyptic fictional books
- show signs of self-sufficiency (stockpiling food, ammo, hand tools, medical supplies)
- fear an economic collapse
- buy gold and barter items
- subscribe to religious views concerning the book of Revelation
- voice fears about Big Brother or big government
- expound about constitutional rights and civil liberties
- believe in a New World Order conspiracy

Despite its well-publicized efforts to train students, teachers, police officers, hairdressers, store clerks, etc., into government eyes and ears, the FBI isn't relying on a nation of snitches to carry out its domestic spying. There's no need. The nation's largest law enforcement agency rivals the NSA in resources, technology, intelligence, and power. Yet while the NSA has repeatedly come under fire for its domestic spying programs, the FBI has continued to operate its subversive and clearly unconstitutional programs with little significant oversight or push-back from the public, Congress or the courts. Just recently, for example, a secret court gave the agency the green light to quietly change its privacy rules for accessing NSA data on Americans' international communications.

Indeed, as I point out in my book Battlefield America: The War on the American People, the FBI has become the embodiment of how power, once acquired, can be easily corrupted and abused. When and if a true history of the FBI is ever written, it will not only track the rise of the American police state but it will also chart the decline of freedom in America.

Owing largely to the influence and power of the FBI, the United States—once a nation that abided by the rule of law and held the government accountable for its actions—has steadily devolved into a police state where justice is one-sided, a corporate elite runs the show, representative government is a mockery, police are extensions of the military, surveillance is rampant, privacy is extinct, and the law is little more than a tool for the government to browbeat the people into compliance.

The FBI's laundry list of crimes against the American people includes surveillance, disinformation, blackmail, entrapment, intimidation tactics, harassment and indoctrination, governmental overreach, abuse, misconduct, trespassing, enabling criminal activity, and damaging private property. And that's just based on what we know.

Whether the FBI is planting undercover agents in churches, synagogues and mosques; issuing fake emergency letters to gain access to Americans' phone records; using intimidation tactics to silence Americans who are critical of the government; recruiting high school students to spy on and report fellow students who show signs of being future terrorists; or persuading impressionable individuals to plot acts of terror and then entrapping them, the overall impression of the nation's secret police force is that of a well-dressed thug, flexing its muscles and doing the boss' dirty work of ensuring compliance, keeping tabs on potential dissidents, and punishing those who dare to challenge the status quo.

The FBI was established in 1908 as a small task force assigned to deal with specific domestic crimes. Initially quite limited in its abilities to investigate so-called domestic crimes, the FBI has been transformed into a mammoth federal policing and surveillance agency. Unfortunately, whatever minimal restrictions kept the FBI's surveillance activities within the bounds of the law all but disappeared in the wake of the 9/11 attacks. The USA Patriot Act gave the FBI and other intelligence agencies carte blanche authority in investigating Americans suspected of being anti-government. As the FBI's powers have grown, its abuses have mounted.

The FBI continues to monitor Americans engaged in lawful First Amendment activities.

COINTELPRO, the FBI program created to "disrupt, misdirect, discredit, and neutralize" groups and individuals the government considers politically objectionable, was aimed not so much at the criminal element but at those who challenged the status quo—namely, those expressing anti-government sentiments such as Martin Luther King Jr. and John Lennon. It continues to this day, albeit in other guises.

The FBI has become a master in the art of entrapment.

In the wake of the 9/11 terrorist attacks the FBI has not only targeted vulnerable individuals but has also lured them into fake terror plots while actually equipping them with the organization, money, weapons and motivation to carry out the plots—entrapment—and then jailing them for their so-called terrorist plotting. This is what the FBI characterizes as "forward leaning—preventative—prosecutions."

FBI agents are among the most notorious lawbreakers.

In addition to creating certain crimes in order to then "solve" them, the FBI also gives certain informants permission to break the law, "including everything from buying and selling illegal drugs to bribing government officials and plotting robberies," in exchange for their cooperation on other fronts. USA Today estimates that agents have authorized criminals to engage in as many as 15 crimes a day. Some of these informants are getting paid astronomical sums: one particularly unsavory fellow, later arrested for attempting to run over a police officer, was actually paid $85,000 for his help laying the trap for an entrapment scheme.

The FBI's powers, expanded after 9/11, have given its agents carte blanche access to Americans' most personal information.

The agency's National Security Letters, one of the many illicit powers authorized by the USA Patriot Act, allows the FBI to secretly demand that banks, phone companies, and other businesses provide them with customer information and not disclose the demands. An internal audit of the agency found that the FBI practice of issuing tens of thousands of NSLs every year for sensitive information such as phone and financial records, often in non-emergency cases, is riddled with widespread violations.

The FBI's spying capabilities are on a par with the NSA.

The FBI's surveillance technology boasts an invasive collection of spy tools ranging from Stingray devices that can track the location of cell phones to Triggerfish devices which allow agents to eavesdrop on phone calls. In one case, the FBI actually managed to remotely reprogram a "suspect's" wireless internet card so that it would send "real-time cell-site location data to Verizon, which forwarded the data to the FBI."

The FBI's hacking powers have gotten downright devious.

FBI agents not only have the ability to hack into any computer, anywhere in the world, but they can also control that computer and all its stored information, download its digital contents, switch its camera or microphone on or off and even control other computers in its network. Given the breadth of the agency's powers, the showdown between Apple and the FBI over customer privacy appears to be more spectacle than substance.

James Comey, current director of the FBI, knows enough to say all the right things about the need to abide by the Constitution, all the while his agency routinely discards it. Comey argues that the government's powers shouldn't be limited, especially when it comes to carrying out surveillance on American citizens. Comey continues to lobby Congress and the White House to force technology companies such as Apple and Google to keep providing the government with backdoor access to Americans' cell phones. The FBI's reach is more invasive than ever.

This is largely due to the agency's nearly unlimited resources (its minimum budget alone in fiscal year 2015 was $8.3 billion), the government's vast arsenal of technology, the interconnectedness of government intelligence agencies, and information sharing through fusion centers—data collecting intelligence agencies spread throughout the country that constantly monitor communications (including those of American citizens), everything from internet activity and web searches to text messages, phone calls and emails.

Today, the FBI employs more than 35,000 individuals and operates more than 56 field offices in major cities across the U.S., as well as 400 resident agencies in smaller towns, and more than 50 international offices. In addition to their "data campus," which houses more than 96 million sets of fingerprints from across the United States and elsewhere, the FBI is also, according to The Washington Post, "building a vast repository controlled by people who work in a top-secret vault on the fourth floor of the J. Edgar Hoover FBI Building in Washington. This one stores the profiles of tens of thousands of Americans and legal residents who are not accused of any crime. What they have done is appear to be acting suspiciously to a town sheriff, a traffic cop or even a neighbor."

The FBI's covert tactics, it's creepy.

The agency's biometric database has grown to massive proportions, the largest in the world, encompassing everything from fingerprints, palm, face and iris scans to DNA, and is being increasingly shared between federal, state and local law enforcement agencies in an effort to target potential criminals before they commit a crime. This is what's known as pre-crime.

If it were just about fighting the "bad guys," that would be one thing. But as countless documents make clear, the FBI has no qualms about using its extensive powers in order to blackmail politicians, spy on celebrities and high-ranking government officials, and intimidate dissidents of all stripes. It's an old tactic, used effectively by former authoritarian regimes...

This is how freedom falls, and tyrants come to power.

Moses the Economist, Part 3

By C. F. Parker

[This treatise originally appeared in serial form in the National Message Magazine of the British Israel World Federation in 1946. It is a presentation on how to implement God's Law.]

Debt Release and Land Tenure

The terms of land tenure under Mosaic law are closely linked to the ancient calendar, so it will be necessary to explain some details whereby the mechanism of this phase of our subject was affected. The reader is well acquainted with the shorter periods of calendar time – the day, week, month, and year – instituted by the ancients and which we still use with varying modifications.

The Israelites observed two more periods, the one, a “week” for financial purposes, being a period of seven years, beyond the expiration of which no financial agreement was valid. No debt might be paid or collected after the end of the sixth year of the “week,” the seventh being the year of “release” and clearing.

The family, on the other hand, contains all these individuals, and yet it is an economic unit that in general needs access to the land; in the first place, a plot is required for a home and here is a reality to which there are relatively far few exceptions than in the case of individuals. Furthermore, the family is a more uniform producer of essential commodities than is the individual; and again, its economic requirements are more constant. Indeed, the daily family routine performs a more uniform cycle than do the lives of different individuals: male, female, children, aged, infirm, professionals, etc., all of whom are usually members of a family.

For these reasons, and since all life, both of the individual and of the family, is equally dependent on the land for existence, the family is chosen as the basic unit of Bible economics. This follows upon the formation of the family unit by nature itself, where man and woman must come together to beget children if society is to continue, and then remain together as a unit in order that the children may live until they are able to fend for themselves. Without the family, civilization would perish, and therefore something larger than the mere individual is performe the basic unit of society.

Land, under the Mosaic system is divided, not to individuals as such, but to families, each family being entitled to its just portion. This is clearly shown in the beginning of the Israelites' settlement of their Promised Land, for the territory was first divided among the twelve landed tribes who were to live on the fruits of the earth; the territory, it will be recalled, was divided without favor to any particular family through casting lots for the subdivisions.

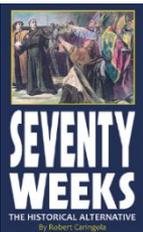

It may be well to explain at this point that the family or tribe of Levi was not granted a tribal territory, for the people that tribe were civil servants: doctors, lawyers, teachers, etc., who were no engaged on the land; they were scattered throughout all Israel, and did not require a specific tribal area. A similar case obtained in the House of Aaron, who were the clergy. As these people rendered services in exchange for their daily keep, agricultural land was not needed by them: all that they required was a portion of city land on which to dwell. This subject will be dealt with at greater length in a future chapter.

Tribal territory was further apportioned to individual families; careful attention being given to the legitimate requirements of each. Perhaps the most striking example of the fairness and consideration granted in this division is to be found in the case of the daughters of Zelophehad, who, because their family had no male head to whom the land was customarily issued on behalf of the family as a whole, found themselves without an inheritance; they successfully appealed and received their portion, as would have fallen to their family in normal circumstances. (Numbers 36).

It might seem that at times in the Scripture record instances are cited of land having been granted to individuals as such, as when the aged Patriarch divided his inheritance between Esau and Jacob, or when the prodigal received and wasted his estate. But these men were acting as potential heads of families and their inheritances were not only for their own persons, but for their families and successors even more than for themselves.

It has been pointed out that the Levites, since they did not work on the land, did not require a tribal grant for their production of commodities for either the community or themselves. Being men in the professions, they were not country-dwellers so much as city-dwellers. They were therefore permitted to hold town property, which in ancient cities was non-agricultural owing to its being entirely built up. Certain entire cities were allotted to Levi, such presumably becoming special centers for the professions, where schools, municipal offices, courts, records, etc., might be located, and where the Levites might carry on their professions and at the same time enjoy a measure of tribal communion in compensation for the loss of their tribal territory. Such towns might correspond to our modern university and country towns, or other large centers of official, educational, and other activity. Next: Tithing, Firstfruits, Concessions and Contributions

This is the story of the only Messianic Divine measure recorded in the Bible. The truth of its interpretation goes back to the Protestant Reformation.
